

Public notice discusses water fluoridation

PUBLIC NOTICE on Water Fluoridation Practices
(California Code of Regulations, Title 22, Section 64433.7(c))
Presidio of Monterey Water System (System Number 2710704) and Former Fort Ord/Presidio of Monterey Annex Water System (System Number 2710701)

Currently, the drinking water at the Presidio of Monterey, the former Fort Ord and POM Annex is fluoridated as Army's preventive dentistry measure for young children.

In preparation for the upcoming privatization of both water systems, the Army has reviewed the operation costs and demographics, and has determined that water fluoridation is no longer necessary.

As a result, fluoridation of both water systems will be discontinued. Fluoridation at the POM will end by Jan. 31. Fluoridation at the POM Annex water system stopped Dec. 21, due to equipment failure.

After Army's fluoridation is discontinued, natural levels of fluoride will still be present in the drinking water. Typical natural fluoride levels are 0.5 mg/L at the POM and 0.25 mg/L at the former Fort Ord and the POM Annex.

Since fluoride supplements are available by prescription only, any residents with concerns should discuss their specific circumstances and alternatives with their primary healthcare provider or dentist.

Military beneficiaries and their dependants with valid prescriptions written by their authorized healthcare providers may obtain fluoride supplements at the Presidio of Monterey Health Clinic pharmacy during normal operating hours.

For health-related questions about fluoride, call Rick Michael of California Medical Detachment Preventive Medicine Unit at 242-7585.

For answers to questions about this notice, current fluoridation practices, or drinking water quality, contact Chieko Nguyen, Directorate of Environmental and Natural Resources Management, at 899-7372, or via e-mail nguyenc@pom-emh1.

Army Community Service seeks support for symposium

Every other year Army Community Service, an agency of the Directorate of Community Activities, sponsors the Army Family Action Plan Symposium at the Presidio of Monterey. This year's AFAP is scheduled for March 29-30.

The Army must maintain high quality of life standards and a commitment to soldiers, retirees, civilian employees and family members in order to attract and retain a quality force. The Army's mechanism for accomplishing this obligation is the AFAP, which is built on the premise that America's Army family members are the experts on quality of life issues.

Presidio of Monterey Army Family Action Plan Symposium is a two-day forum open to all members of the military community – including service members, family members, retirees and Department of Defense civilians. Anyone who is part of the Presidio of Monterey family can be an AFAP participant.

Commanders can draw on the real-time quality of life information AFAP provides and can support a strong AFAP program in their community.

Service members, retirees, civilians or family members can be part of local, major command and Headquarters Department of Army AFAP Programs. Individuals can be delegates and share their ideas.

They can volunteer to help with the conference, or be members of the local AFAP Steering Committee.

People can also spread the news by becoming familiar with AFAP issues, telling people what's happening, and getting them enthused to participate.

For more information, to volunteer to assist with the conference or to register as a delegate, call Army Community Service at 242-7660.

From the desk of the Garrison Commander

Commander applauds Y2K efforts

Hello all,

Happy New Millennium! I am very pleased to report that we entered into this new year of 2000 without a hitch; much thanks to the hard-working Y2K project team of: Capt. John Roberts, Art Gebbia, Wes Hood, Sgt. 1st Class Christopher Ferris from the HQS; Chief Alex Kerekes and Lt. James Smith from the Presidio of Monterey Police Department; Jerry Abeyta and Dewey Baird from Public Works; Peggy Wielandt, Pat Kelly, Carl Rhoades, Robert Ferguson, and Richard Higdem from Information Management; Byron Owens from Logistics; Penny Sinclair and Nancy Bennett from Contracting; and Rich Savko from the Emergency Operations Center. All of their efforts prior to, and for some of them, their efforts throughout the night itself enabled us to greet the New Year with all "systems green."

New Year's is also traditionally the time for fresh starts and resolutions. I sincerely hope that one of your resolutions may be to assist in making our community a better place for all of us. If that is one of your choices, please stop by and see our dedicated staffs at Army Community Services directed by Ms. Kevin Moore and company, or at the Mayors Office coordinated by Ms. Karen Tyler, both located in the Stilwell Community Center. They will be able to steer you in a positive direction to accomplish your goals while providing a worthwhile contribution.

Whatever your resolutions are,

Army Col. Peter Dausen
Garrison Commander

congratulations on making them! It's the first step. Use this wonderful time to make your fresh start, and may the happiness and optimism of this season follow you throughout 2000!

Thanks for listening.

Be prepared, arm yourself against identity theft

Hundreds of service members were victims of credit card fraud recently after their names and social security numbers were published on the Internet. At the Legal Assistance Office, 10 legal assistance clients a year have been stung by a thief who obtains access to their personal information.

Identity theft occurs when an unauthorized individual uses your personal information, such as your name, social security number, credit card numbers, checking account, driver's license, or phone service, to open new accounts or charge merchandise in your name without your permission.

While you may think your personal information is secure, often, it is not. All it takes is one slip – of paper – for an identity thief to strike. For these unfortunate individuals, their credit ratings, and sanity, can be damaged.

How can you protect yourself against identity theft?

Take the precaution to obtain your credit reports from the three national bureaus on a yearly basis so that you can correct any errors or mistakes. Also, do not carry your SSN card in the same place you carry your driver's license and never throw receipts away without tearing them or shredding them first. Use alternate numbers, rather than your SSN, if possible, on your driver's license and health care cards. Last, guard your personal information by being cautious. Don't send your credit card number over the Internet unless dealing with a reputable and secure site and don't give your personal information to people or agencies you don't trust.

If you are the victim of identity theft, however, it is recommended that you file a police report. The police report may help you in dealing with creditors demanding payment for purchases you did not make. The Identity Theft and Assumption Deterrence Act of 1998 makes identity theft a federal crime with fines and penalties up to 15 years imprisonment. California has passed its own identity theft statute.

Contact your creditors via telephone and in writing to inform them of the situation. Lastly, keep accurate records of your transactions and purchases in order to reverse the damage, you will have to provide proof and you will have to be tenacious. Act quickly to minimize damage. In dealing with the authorities and financial institutions, keep a log of all conversations, including dates, names, and phone numbers. Note time spent and any expenses incurred. Confirm conversations in writing. Send correspondence by certified mail with return receipt requested. Keep copies of all letters and documents.

Visit the Legal Assistance Office, Building 275, where a more detailed handout on identity theft is available. Check the Staff Judge Advocate Website for a variety of consumer information including identity theft tips. The URL is pom-www.army.mil/atzp_ja/la/default.html.

The group will focus on the long-term effects for those individuals that grew up in an alcoholic home, abusive environment, or other family dysfunction. Call 656-3488 to register.

New Basic Allowance for Housing rates more accurately reflect actual costs

Service members in lower cost areas who see the published rates for their area go down will not see rate change mirrored on LES

By Jim Garamone
American Forces Press Service

The recently released Basic Allowance for Housing rates effective Jan. 1 were computed using a new method of measuring housing costs for service members in the United States.

Department of Defense officials said this more accurately reflects the actual cost of housing. DOD computes BAH for more than 400 locations in the United States. DOD-wide about 752,000 service members are eligible for BAH. About 73 percent receive BAH at the "with dependent" rates.

The Defense Finance and Accounting Service will post the rates. The site is at www.dtic.mil/perdiem/bahform.html. While the rates are different for each area, overall, the new BAH rates mean junior enlisted will receive more money. Further, rates in high cost areas will go up for all ranks.

"The major change in BAH was to find a way to more accurately reflect housing costs for service members in the areas they are assigned," said Vice Adm. Pat Tracey, deputy assistant secretary of defense for military personnel policy. "We found that under the old [Basic Allowance for Quarters/Variable Housing Allowance] system that people would move into housing that was less costly and, because we surveyed them on where they were living, we kept driving down the rates in some areas, and people found it more and more difficult to find affordable housing.

"We ended up setting rates that drove people into less acceptable housing in more and more risky neighborhoods."

Under the new system officials compute the BAH rates based on surveys of what it costs to live in particular communities rather than service members' reports of what they paid. The old system worked to the disadvantage of junior enlisted members and to all service members living in high-cost areas, officials said.

Service members in lower cost areas may see the published rates for their area go down, but will not see this mirrored on their leave and earnings statements.

"In areas where the rates go up, service members will receive the new rates," said Navy Capt. Elliott Bloxom, DOD's director of compensation. "But in areas where the rates go down, individuals will be protected. They will not see their allowance drop. But new people moving in will receive the lower rates."

This rate protection applies throughout the country.

Service members will not be penalized in 2000 if the rate drops. "They may have negotiated their lease payments at the higher rate," Bloxom said. "As long as members stay in their current locations they will not see their rate drop."

When they move to their next assignments, they will be paid the published rates at the time for their new locations.

Rate-protected service members sponsoring a family should be aware of the new rates, however. "If they are sponsoring someone who is moving to the area, those new people will not receive the same rate they do," Bloxom said.

The changes this year essentially complete the transition from the old system of BAQ/VHA to BAH four years early.

DOD officials have resolved the potential problem caused by differences in the fiscal 2000 defense authorization and appropriation acts. The authorization act pledged $225 million more to the BAH program, but the appropriations act — the act that actually appropriates money — set the amount at $100 million.

DOD officials said the military services cut other programs to come up with the additional $125 million.

BAH does not cover all of service members' housing costs. By law, service members should pay no more than 15 percent of the national median housing costs out-of-pocket. In 1999, the percentage was 19.8 percent. Making this transition will allow DOD to reduce the typical service member's out-of-pocket costs. Officials estimate the out-of-pocket costs will be at 18.8 percent in 2000 and 15.8 percent by 2003.

Tracey and Bloxom said the 2000 rates would be a pleasant surprise for service members. "BAH allows us to increase rates in the higher cost areas while allowing us to provide rate protection," Bloxom said. "Nobody will lose. People in areas where the rates go up will receive them, people in areas where they go down will be protected."

Babysitting safety

Presidio police offer advice to aid younger caregivers

Caring for young children is one of the biggest responsibilities you'll ever have. You must protect yourself as well as the children. The Presidio of Monterey Police Department offers the following tips for babysitting safety.

Getting the job

Know your employer. Baby-sit only for people you or your parents know, or for whom you have a personal reference. Answering newspaper ads may not be safe.

Be sure to find out from your employers what time they expect to be back. Be sure they know how much you charge and when you must be home.

Leave the name, address and telephone number of where you'll be babysitting with your parents, and tell them what time your employers expect to be home.

On the job

Before your employers leave, fill out the information requested on the form in this brochure. Do this for every job you take. Keep the form, a pencil and paper near the telephone.

Have your employers do a safety check with you throughout their home. Find out if their home has emergency exits, a smoke alarm, or a fire extinguisher. Know how to work the door and window locks in the home, and use them. Leave at least one outside light on.

If the telephone rings while you're babysitting, don't tell the caller that you're alone. Say you're visiting and the residents can't come to the telephone, but you'll give them a message. If the caller persists or gets rude, just hang up.

Don't open the door to strangers, and don't tell anyone who comes to the door that you're there alone. Again, say you're visiting and will deliver a message.

The same rules apply to daytime as well as night babysitting, with a few additions:

During the day you might have the children out in the yard. If you're in back, make sure the front door is locked and vice versa.

If you take the children out to the park or anywhere else, make sure you have the house key with you when you leave. Double check to be certain all doors and windows are locked before leaving.

Have the children go to the bathroom before you leave to help avoid having to use public restrooms.

When you are out with the children, don't talk to strangers. If you suspect you're being followed, go to a nearby home, store, or gas station and call the police.

When you get back to the children's home, if anything seems unusual – a broken window, an open door, a strange car parked outside – don't go in. Go to a neighbor's and call the police. For that matter, if at any time while you're

News Briefs

Carson Wagonlit no longer provides leisure travel

Carlson Wagonlit Travel agents will no longer provide leisure travel services at stateside Army installations.

Carlson officials told the Army in October that the company would stop paying commissions to installations, and if the Army did not accept charging soldiers a fee to make plane reservations, the company would curtail its service. Carlson said those changes were necessary since cuts in airline commissions reduced the company's profits.

Army officials said the company was unwilling to compromise on fee rates during negotiations, which led to the cut-off for leisure travel services.

Realizing some soldiers would be inconvenienced, the Army asked Carlson to continue helping soldiers with plane reservations in emergency leave situations, holiday EXODUS from training centers, and leave in conjunction with official travel. Except for emergency leave, soldiers can expect to pay a transaction fee from $8.50 to $24 at on-post Carlson Wagonlit Travel offices. (Courtesy of Army News Service)

Do you know what kind of health care to expect when you're retired and perhaps not living close to a military installation? Have you and your spouse discussed the Survivor Benefit Plan?

If you entered the service after Aug. 1, 1986, have you thought about which retired pay plan you'll choose when you reach the 15-year mark?

You can start collecting the information you need to get ready to retire online and in person. Online, you can visit the Army Retirement Services homepage at www.odcsper.army.mil/retire/retire1.asp. (Courtesy of Army Retirement Services)

AFPC announces AFAF campaign dates

Air Force Personnel Center has announced the annual Air Force Assistance Fund Campaign will take place Feb. 28 through March 31. The theme is "Commitment to Caring."

Installation project officers, appointed by the commander, will conduct the campaign for all personnel serviced by the installation military personnel flight including tenant and geographically separated units. The 2000 AFAF campaign brochures, posters and contributor forms will be shipped by Saturday.

Organizations announce scholarship programs

The Fort Ord Thrift Shop will award $7,000 in scholarships in the year 2000. Applications for students and spouses will be available in February.

For eligibility requirements or more information, call 899-4975.

Application requests for the Army Emergency Relief

Maj. Gen. James Ursano Scholarship Program for the school-year 2000-2001 are available now until March 1.

Request forms are available at the Army Emergency Relief Office, Army Community Service, located in the Stilwell Community Center on the Presidio of Monterey Annex, and at Chamberlin Library, located on North South Road next to the Post Chapel. For more information, call Mike Pablo, Army Emergency Relief officer, at 242-5501.

The Retired Officer's Association is giving a $1,000 scholarship grant to a high school senior or undergraduate college student at the Defense Language Institute Foreign Language Center and Presidio of Monterey for the 2000-2001 school year.

To be eligible, a student must be under age 24, working on a first undergraduate degree, and a dependent son or daughter of an active duty service person, officer or enlisted, in the Army, Navy, Air Force, Marines, Coast Guard, U.S. Public Health Service, or National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration.

Application is by the world wide web only. To apply, go to www.troa.org. Go to "Member Services," then to "Scholarship and Education Assistance."

babysitting, you're uneasy or suspicious about anything, don't hesitate to call the police.

In an emergency

If you suspect a fire, get the children and yourself out. Go to a neighbor's and call the fire department. If you've been able to take the safety checklist with you, call your employer; let them know where you and the children are.

In any kind of emergency, stay calm. The most important thing to remember is that young children won't panic if you don't.

When the job's over

When your employers return home, report on what happened, especially if you considered anything unusual. Call home to let someone know you're on your way.

Be sure you have an escort home; this should be one of the conditions under which you accept any babysitting job.

If, for some reason, your employers won't drive or walk you home – or seem intoxicated – ask someone at your home to come and get you.

Light It Up, starring Usher Raymond and Forest Whitaker. At a neglected high school in Queens, N.Y., a favorite teacher is suspended. Suddenly six desperate students barricade themselves inside the school. As the police, media and eyes of the country zero in on the sensational crisis, the students realize for the first time in their young lives that their voices might actually be heard: what do they say? R

The Insider, starring Al Pacino and Christopher Plummer. On the edge of exposing one of the decade's most incendiary public health issues, "60 Minutes" television producer Lowell Bergman must convince former tobacco industry insider Dr. Jeffrey Wigand to reveal the truth about the practices of cigarette companies, although the consequences to his career and family may be ruinous. R

The Messenger: The Story of Joan of Arc, starring Milla Jovovich and John Malkovich. It all began when a teenage girl from a remote village in France stood before the world and announced she would defeat the world's greatest army and liberate her country. As this small voice in the heart of a simple girl grew stronger, rulers were drawn to Want to place an ad?

Explanation of classified ad policy

The following information is provided to explain and clarify policy for individuals who would like to publish classified ads in POM-Mart.

Military members, retirees and Department of Defense civilian employees with valid identification cards are authorized to place classified ads in the Community News.

To place an ad in the Community News, complete the form on the back page of the Community News and deliver it to the Public Affairs Office, Building 614, Room 142, Presidio of Monterey, 93944. Ads may also be sent via e-mail to the editor at wright@pom-emhl.army.mil. Individuals should be sure to include all information requested on the form, including the category of the ad.

Daytime work telephone numbers are for use by Community News staff only; they will not be listed in ads. Individuals may place up to three ads per household in different categories per issue. Each ad should not exceed 35 words; itemized property for sale should be valued at least $10.

The Community News staff will make every effort to publish ads accurately, but we reserve the right to edit ads to meet readability, format and space requirements. Report typographical errors to the editor, and they will be corrected in the next available issue.

Acceptable classified ads include items in the categories of Autos; Motorcycles; Trucks, Vans, Sport, RVs; Wanted; Sports Equipment; Entertainment, Music Items; Computers and Accessories; Lost and Found; Miscellaneous; Pets or Household Items. Items must be for one-time sale or for free – not for a profit-sharing venture of multiple items. The Community News does not take responsibility for items advertised.

Classified ads for businesses, rentals, free information, help for hire or tutoring, or illegal items are not authorized. Each ad will be published in three consecutive issues unless it is renewed or cancelled.

The date the ad was first published is printed in parentheses following each ad. For example, ads dated (12-16) will continue to run through the Jan. 28 issue. Classified ads may be renewed or cancelled by phone; however, new ads, additions or major changes to ads must be done in writing before the Wednesday deadline for the next issue. Deadlines are generally a week and a half prior to the next publication. When calling in reference to an ad, be sure to identify the category, first few words of the ad, phone number as printed and the date following the ad.

Deadline for the Jan. 28 issue is Wednesday; deadline for the Feb. 11 issue is Feb. 3.

Refer questions concerning this policy to the editor of the Community News at the Public Affairs Office, at 242-5104 or 242-6426.
